Sacramento Advocacy:

Catherine Barankin
CIHC Legislative Office
Sacramento, CA

Dear Colleagues:

On behalf of the CIHC Board, I welcome you to the 24th annual conference of the California Industrial Hygiene Council. The Council represents California's five AIHA Local Sections in the Sacramento State Capitol and beyond, with a very clear mission:

- Promote the Industrial Hygiene profession in California.
- Increase recognition of Industrial Hygiene in legislative and regulatory actions.
- Promote sound scientific and technologic input into the legislative and regulatory process.

We worked diligently this past year to meet our three-pronged mission. California's increasing regulatory oversight of toxic chemicals and other occupational health risks has provided the CIHC opportunities to weigh in issues which impact our membership and business in general. We successfully lobbied for inclusion of language into the recently passed Hazard Evaluation System and Information Service (HESIS) bill that ensured the Chief of HESIS consulted with the Director of Industrial Relations and the Chief of the Division of Environmental and Occupational Disease Control in the State Department of Public Health prior to requiring chemical manufacturers, formulators, suppliers, distributors, importers, and their agents to supply the names and addresses of customers who have purchased certain chemicals, as specified by HESIS. We continued our active participation in a variety of Cal/OSHA Advisory Committee processes, including hotel housekeeping, heat illness prevention, repeat violations, occupational exposure to antineoplastic drugs, along with monitoring implementation of the Safer Consumer Products regulations.

On the national level, the CIHC collaborated with our national AIHA risk assessment colleagues to provide comments on the NIOSH Revised Carcinogen Policy, signed on to the "Friends of NIOSH" letter supporting stable NIOSH funding in FY 2015 along with maintaining representation on the national AIHA Board.

The CIHC has once again been able to achieve its goals without going back to the membership to request additional monetary commitments. One of the ways we accomplish this is by sponsoring a first-rate annual conference, which brings together professionals from various sectors to leverage each other's perspectives and learning.

We invite you to become familiar with our website at CIHOnline.com and visit it often to monitor our activities. We encourage you to provide input on the CIHC Board's activities that impact our profession and the health of workers and our community. We also encourage you to get involved with our organization at the local or state level. New blood brings new ideas!

Sincerely,

Edward J. Klinenberg, Ph.D., MBA, MS, CIH
President, California Industrial Hygiene Council

Overview of CIHC

Purpose

- Establish a legislative presence in the State Capitol through professional representation
- Keep the industrial hygiene professional intact by opposing any further erosion or limitation of practice by legislation or regulation
- Seek recognition in statutes defining, recognizing, and protecting the profession of industrial hygiene
- Provide sound scientific and technological input to the legislative and regulatory process

Legislative Services

- CIHC contracts with Sacramento Advocacy to provide legislative support
- Professional legislative support is essential especially during the current state economic climate where many health and safety programs are or have been considered for elimination or modification
- CIHC Directors, representing five local American Industrial Hygiene Associations (AIHA), volunteer their time to support CIHC activities

Activities

- Review and monitor legislation (each year, the CIHC Board reviews hundreds of bills, screened by the CIHC Legislative Office, which may impact the industrial hygiene profession)
- Sponsor legislation
- Review regulations
- Sponsor the annual CIHC Conference
- Coordinate with AIHA National Governmental Affairs

Major Accomplishments

- Defined Industrial Hygienist in State Law (H&S Code 117672)
- Initiated and Sponsored the Industrial Hygienist Definition and Registration Act (B&P Code Sections 20700-20705)
- Established a legislative presence in Sacramento
- Negotiated by reducing the number of days for lead training course for CIHs to three days
- Negotiated the exemption for Trauma Scene Waste Management Practitioner requirement
- Monitored rewrite of the Professional Engineers Act
- Sponsored laboratory accreditation legislation
- Sponsored successful legislation to allow a CIH or other qualified professional to provide lead poisoning prevention services
- Garnered strategic legislative amendments to the Toxic Mold Protection Act of 2001 assuring the participation of IH's in developing standards to identify, evaluate, and abate mold
- Submitted formal input on the following proposed regulations: heat illness prevention, green chemistry, lead in paint from developing countries, globally harmonized hazard communication systems, and building standards

Annual CIHC Conference

- Provides a statewide forum to discuss issues of concern to the industrial hygiene profession
- Provides educational opportunities for industrial hygienists and allied professionals
- Strengthens ties and establish alliance among the occupational health and safety professionals
- Provides an opportunity to consult, network, collaborate among industrial hygienists and other professionals
- Raises funds to support the CIHC organization by continuing services provided by Sacramento Advocacy

Welcome from Conference Co-Chairs

Welcome to the 24th Annual CIHC Conference!

It is our pleasure to co-chair the 24th Annual California Industrial Hygiene Conference in San Diego, and to welcome our colleagues in the California environmental, health and safety community, including scientists, regulators and industry representatives. We hope you will enjoy this opportunity to meet and connect with your friends and colleagues from around the State to discuss the ever-changing landscape of our field and learn about best practices, while fulfilling your personal goals for attending this year's conference.

We know that the success of the conference ultimately depends on the many people who have worked with us in planning and organizing both the technical program and supporting social arrangements. In particular, we would like to thank the Session Arrangers for their diligence and well-placed suggestions on organizing the technical program; the Conference Committee for their hard work on planning and organizing the many logistical details, and our Sponsors who help us keep the "price of admission" down for all conference participants.

In keeping with the "Occupational & Environmental, Health & Safety Practice in the 21st Century" conference theme this year, attendees can access presentations and materials via the CIHC website to reduce paper use.

If you are collecting hours or points for your CIH or CSP professional certifications, be sure to sign in at the registration table when you pick up your badge and program materials. If you are collecting hours for the REHS professional certification, be sure to sign in at the registration table each day so that your attendance certificate reflects all days attended.

Please feel free to connect with us, any of the CIHC Board members, or the conference volunteers if you have any questions about the program. We value your input on this year's conference, and use our attendees' comments for improvements in the future. In that regard, take a few minutes to complete a conference evaluation. Conference and individual session evaluations are available online at: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/CIHC2014>

We hope you enjoy this educational opportunity in California designed especially for you! Thank you for being here!

California Legislative Update

Catherine Barankin

Sacramento Advocacy

Catherine has been a professional advocate for over thirty-six years, and established the lobbying firm Sacramento Advocacy in 1977. She has received numerous awards for her advocacy work and is a frequent guest speaker at conferences and public policy workshops. She has also been a columnist for the Sacramento Bee.

In addition to representing the interests of the California Industrial Hygiene Council before the Legislature and state agencies, Catherine also conducts advocacy trainings, and along with her husband, Dr. Joseph Barankin, is the author of "The Advocacy Handbook".

Ms. Barankin's background prior to lobbying included serving as the Director of Public Relations for Southern California College, Assistant Editor of Forum 50 magazine and television news reporting for Channel 50 in Southern California. While attending college, Catherine majored in speech and communications and was awarded the Bell Scroggins Award as the "Most Outstanding Woman Debater in the Nation". She was selected as the commencement speaker and was the recipient of the Alumni Hall of Fame award from her college for her outstanding legislative accomplishments. Catherine's volunteer activities include membership on the YMCA of Superior California Board of Directors and on the YMCA Youth and Government Board. She also was a founding board member of the Sacramento Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA), a program which represents dependent children in the juvenile court system.

Key California Environmental Regulations/ Legislation & Impact on EHS

Karen J. Nardi, Esq

Partner
Arnold Porter, LLP

Karen Nardi, a Partner in the firm's San Francisco office, is a member of the Environmental Practice Group. She counsels clients on environmental regulations and represents them in enforcement actions. She also works with companies to manage liabilities in business transactions.

A poll published by GC California magazine in December 2008 named Ms. Nardi the top environmental compliance attorney in California. She has also been included in the Super Lawyers list of Northern California's top attorneys eleven years in a row. In the 2012 edition of Chambers, she was praised as a go-to expert for compliance and enforcement issues, and clients noted that she "knows practical solutions because of her superb experience."

Ms. Nardi holds a Master's degree in Public Policy from the Goldman School at UC Berkeley. She has been a legislative analyst for the California State Assembly and an intern at the Congressional Budget Office in Washington, DC. She is co-author of several books, including the Environmental Law Handbook and Brownfields Law and Practice.

COMPLIANCE AND ENFORCEMENT—Ms. Nardi counsels clients on wide range of environmental and safety laws. She works with clients to conduct audits, develop compliance programs, obtain permits and variances, and resolve civil enforcement actions. She also helps clients comply with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) on major construction and transportation projects.

AUDITS—Ms. Nardi works with companies in different industries to audit environmental, health, and safety (EH&S) management systems and regulatory compliance.

OSHA, INDUSTRIAL SAFETY, AND 911—Ms. Nardi counsels clients on compliance with safety laws and helps them resolve OSHA citations. She also helps clients investigate serious injury accidents and manage the resulting enforcement and third party claims. She has assisted a number of clients in coordinating emergency response, notification, and internal investigations in connection with serious fires, explosions, and fatality accidents. She has experience with audits involving industrial process safety and emergency response.

ENVIRONMENTAL DUE DILIGENCE—Ms. Nardi represents purchasers and sellers of contaminated properties and businesses with significant environmental liabilities. She coordinates environmental due diligence efforts and works with clients to allocate environmental liabilities in acquisitions, mergers, and real property transfers. She also assists clients to obtain environmental insurance.

SITE CLEANUPS—Ms. Nardi assists clients in the cleanup of contaminated properties nationally. She also helps companies resolve disputes over the allocation of cleanup costs via negotiation, mediation, arbitration, and litigation. Her work includes complex Superfund sites, properties with industrial solvents and agricultural pesticides, and numerous underground storage tank sites.

BROWNFIELDS AND BASE CLOSURES—Ms. Nardi has worked with many clients to redevelop Brownfields properties. She brings a practical understanding of the risks inherent in redeveloping contaminated property and the legal tools and engineering controls used to manage these risks. She has worked on environmental cleanups at military bases that are being converted to new uses in their communities. She has also helped prospective buyers, property owners and responsible parties deal with the emerging issue of "vapor intrusion"- the migration of chemicals from groundwater into buildings, potentially impacting the health of building occupants.

PRO BONO—Ms. Nardi has been a volunteer attorney at Legal Services for Children (LSC) where she obtains guardianships for children whose parents are unable to care for them. She served on the Board of Directors for LSC from 2004-2013. She also does pro bono work for the National Parks Conservation Association, devoted to the protection of our national parks.

OELs—The Global Landscape

Chris Laszcz-Davis, MS, CIH, AIHA Fellow, AIC Fellow

President, The Environmental Quality Organization, LLC
Affiliated, Aluminium Consulting Engineers

As Founder and President of The Environmental Quality Organization (EQO) LLC, Chris Laszcz-Davis has over thirty (30) years of executive management, professional, operational, technical and consulting experience in environmental affairs, occupational health and safety, operational integrity, risk management, product stewardship and corporate acquisitions/divestitures in industry and government. She is also presently affiliated with the internationally-based Aluminium Consulting Engineers (ACE) which services the aluminum mining, smelting and fabricating industries.

As former Corporate Vice-President, Environmental Affairs, Health, Safety (EH&S), Product Stewardship & Operational Integrity for Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corporation, Chris helped lead the corporation's initiatives to reshape its EH&S culture, expand its global EH&S horizons to address the full life cycle of its organization's aluminum, refractory and chemical operations, and integrate its EH&S workings into the fabric of the operational line organization. Prior to industry, Chris worked for the US Department of Energy (DOE) in both Washington DC and the west coast as a regional EH&S Manager.

Chris is a national American Industrial Hygiene Association (AIHA) Fellow, a national American Institute of Chemists (AIC) Fellow, and a recipient of the national AIHA's Kusnetz Award, the national AIHA's Alice Hamilton Award, the AIHA-Yuma Pacific Southwest Section's Clayton Award and the AIHA-Northern California Section's Dr. Christine Einert Award. As a Past President, American Academy of Industrial Hygiene (AIH), Chris was instrumental in having the profession sponsor its first major Fall conference on Risk Assessment in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada back in the early 1990's. Industrial Safety & Hygiene News (IHSN), with a readership of over 100,000 nationally, recognized Chris as one of the 101 most influential EHS leaders in the country in 2011-2012.

Service to the global professional community has earmarked Chris's career. Over the years, she has served as a Director, American Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists (ACGIH); Director, American Board of Industrial Hygiene (ABIH); Trustee, American Industrial Hygiene Foundation (AIHF); Appointee to both the International Occupational Hygiene Association (IOHA) and American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS); U.S. Department of Commerce appointed member, Board of Examiners, Malcolm National Quality Award; and President of both AIHA's Northern California and Yuma Pacific Southwest Local Sections. She is presently a Director of the national AIHA Board and Past-President, California Industrial Hygiene Council (CIHC), a state wide EHS legislative advocacy group focused on bringing sound science into the region's very active legislative/regulatory process.

Chris lectures frequently, has authored numerous articles and chapters, and has been instrumental in orchestrating three national AIHA telewebs on various subjects. She continues to assume collaborative leadership team building and mentoring roles in bringing cutting edge subjects (such as climate change, sustainability, product stewardship, exposure limits and renewable energy alternatives) into the EH&S dialogue. Chris received her Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in Chemistry and Biology from Notre Dame and her Masters of Science (MS) degree in Environmental Health Sciences from the University of Minnesota.

On a personal note, Chris is a huge advocate of two basic philosophies-- "Wherever you go, go with all your heart....and "Believe in the power of one—one person can truly make a difference".

Mindfulness: Promoting Total Worker Health and Safety by Being in the Moment

Jessica Drew de Paz, PsyD

Mindfulness & Safety Research Coordinator
Environmental Health and Safety, University of California, Irvine

Jessica Drew de Paz is a clinical psychologist with a background in mindfulness meditation, a state of being present with focused attention. Over a decade ago, she took a valuable detour from her career path to oversee University of California Irvine's Environmental Health & Safety training. These two seemingly disparate positions synergized into a research idea. Upon learning that nearly 70% of campus injuries involved a person who was inattentive and/or distracted, Jessica realized the potential benefits of infusing mindfulness into the safety field. This led to her current appointment, leading the University of California "Mindful Health & Safety" Center of Excellence. In collaboration with UC Irvine's Susan Samueli Center for Integrative Medicine, she is investigating the potential for a Mindful Health & Safety Program to improve workplace health and safety outcomes across a variety of industries.

Emerging Issues in Organizational Violence

James S. Cawood, CPP

President
Factor One

Mr. Cawood is President of Factor One which is a California based corporation specializing in threat assessment and management, violence risk assessment, behavioral analysis, security consulting, and investigations. Mr. Cawood has worked in the area of threat and violence risk assessment and management, behavioral analysis, violence prevention, security analysis, and incident resolution for more than 25 years. He has successfully assessed and managed over 4000 violence related cases for federal and state government agencies, universities and colleges, public and private corporations, and other business entities throughout North America. Mr. Cawood has also provided consultation and training to these same types of organizations on the design and implementation of threat assessment, violence risk assessment, and incident response protocols. This included participation in the development of the P.O.S.T. (Peace Officers Standards and Training) telecourse for Workplace Violence for California and Arizona law enforcement, California P.O.S.T. development of a Fear and Anger Control telecourse, Association of Threat Assessment Professional's Risk Assessment Guideline Elements for Violence (R.A.G.E.-V), ASIS International's Workplace Violence Prevention and Response guideline, and participation in the development of a threat assessment protocol by the California District Attorney's Association for use in training judges, District Attorneys, and others in the California justice system. He also has served as an expert witness in dozens of cases involving questions concerning investigative and security issues, including threat assessment and violence in the workplace.

Mr. Cawood is currently serving on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Threat Assessment and Management (American Psychological Association) and is the former Association President of the Association of Threat Assessment Professionals (ATAP). He has also served as Association 2nd Vice President and the President of the Northern California Chapter of ATAP; on the ASIS International Foundation Board and was Secretary of the Board; as the Chairman of the Board of the California Association of Licensed Investigators and has served as Chairman of their Legislative Committee; and as a Board member for the Association of Workplace Investigators.

Mr. Cawood is a graduate of U.C. Berkeley, holds a Masters degree in Forensic Psychology from Argosy University, and is a doctoral candidate in Psychology at Northcentral University. He has served on the faculties of Golden Gate University, in their Security Management degree program and the University of California, Santa Cruz extension, teaching Threat Management. He is a Certified Protection Professional (CPP), Professional Certified Investigator (PCI), Physical Security Professional (PSP), Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE), Certified Security Professional (CSP), Certified Professional Investigator (CPI), and a Certified International Investigator (CII). He has written articles and book chapters for various professional publications including Security Management magazine, as the original author of A Plan for Threat Management (Chapter 40) of the Protection of Assets Manual; Chapters 24- Personnel Screening and Chapter 32- Arson, Sabotage, and Bomb Threats in the Accident Prevention Manual for Business & Industry- Security Management volume; Chapter 32- Security for Safety, Health, and Asset Protection: Management Essentials, 2nd Edition; and a co-authored chapter: Threat Management of Stalking Cases in The Psychology of Stalking: Clinical and Forensic Perspectives, published by Academic Press in 1998. He has also coauthored the book, Violence Assessment and Intervention: The Practitioner's Handbook, CRC Press 2003-the 2nd Edition having been published in January 2009; contributed to Ending Campus Violence: New Approaches to Prevention, by Brian Van Brunt, Routledge, August 2012; and contributed a chapter on Threat Assessment and Management to Applied Crime Analysis: A Social Science Approach to Understanding Crime, Criminals, and Victims, by Wayne Petherick, July 2014.

Advancing California's Workplace, Safety and Health in the 21st Century

Christine Baker

Director

State of California-Department of Industrial Relations

Christine Baker is the first woman to serve as director of the Department of Industrial Relations (DIR).

Ms. Baker is renowned for innovative targeting in fighting fraud and the underground economy. Her experience comes from working with labor and management as chief of the Division of Labor Statistics and Research (1984-89), the deputy director for the Division of Workers' Compensation (1990-94), and the executive officer of the California Commission on Health and Safety and Workers' Compensation from its inception in 1994 until April 2011. During her tenure as executive officer, the commission's role expanded to overseeing the health, safety and workers' compensation systems in California and recommending administrative and legislative changes for improvement. In April 2011, Christine was named acting director of DIR and was appointed director by Gov. Brown in December. The Senate Rules Committee voted unanimously to confirm her appointment in May 2012.

As director, Christine serves as the state administrator of Apprenticeship, the administrator of the state OSHA Plan, an ex officio member of the California Self-Insurers' Security Fund and an ex officio member of the State Fund board of directors.

Ms. Baker is president-elect of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards & Commissions (IAIABC), and has chaired the California Insurance Commissioner's Workers' Compensation Fraud Focus Group and the advisory committee of the International Forum on Disability Management.

Ms. Baker is the recipient of numerous awards. Small Business California recognized Christine as one of its 2008 Small Business Heroes. In 2012, she received the Human Rights Award from the League of United Latin American Citizens. The Department of Industrial Relations, which she now heads, improves working conditions for California's wage earners, and advances opportunities for profitable employment. DIR divisions include Cal/OSHA, the Labor Commissioner's Office, the Division of Workers' Compensation, the Division of Apprenticeship Standards and six boards, commissions and programs. DIR is a department within the California Labor & Workforce Development Agency.

Ms. Baker earned a master's degree and Ph.D. candidacy at the School of Education, University of California, Berkeley. She resides in Berkeley.

Process Safety Management

Michael Wilson, PhD, MPH

Chief Scientist

State of California-Department of Industrial Relations

Dr. Wilson is serving as Chief Scientist in the Office of the Director, California Department of Industrial Relations. DIR oversees state programs dedicated to protecting the health, safety and economic security of California's 18 million workers. Dr. Wilson is supporting Director Christine Baker in a range of DIR efforts, including the Interagency Refinery Task Force, where he is working alongside Dr. Gina Solomon, also of COEH, now Undersecretary for Science and Health at California EPA.

Dr. Wilson is the former Director and Principal Investigator of UC Berkeley's Labor Occupational Health Program. LOHP is one of the nation's preeminent public University outreach programs to advance worker and community health and safety. Dr. Wilson also served as Associate Director for Integrative Sciences of the Berkeley Center for Green Chemistry (BCGC), which involves students, faculty and researchers from the Colleges and Schools of chemistry, public health, natural resources, engineering, and business.

Dr. Wilson's research and practice focus primarily on the intersection of occupational and environmental health sciences and policy in California, the U.S. and internationally, with emphasis on the chemical and oil refining sectors. He specializes in interdisciplinary approaches to problem-solving and in the development of strategic partnerships to improve health, safety and environmental practices in the high-hazard industries. He conducts technical work in exposure assessment and control, alternatives assessment, and emergency response.

Dr. Wilson earned a BA with Thesis Honors in Biology (1984) from the University of California, Santa Cruz, and a Master of Public Health (1998) in Industrial Hygiene from the University of California, Berkeley. He earned the PhD (2003) in Environmental Health Sciences from UC Berkeley, studying under Professor S. Katharine Hammond. Dr. Wilson is a graduate of the Trade Union Program at Harvard University (1995), the Proyecto Linguistico Instituto Francisco Marroquin in Antigua, Guatemala (1987), and the Pre-Hospital Care Program at Stanford University (1986).

Safer Product Regulations

Karl Palmer

Branch Chief

Safer Products & Workplaces Program, Department of Toxic Substances Control

Karl Palmer works in the Department of Toxic Substances Control's (DTSC) Safer Consumer Products and Workplaces Program where he is responsible for DTSC's efforts to implement the department's Safer Consumer Products regulations. These regulations establish a process to identify and prioritize hazardous chemicals in consumer products and to establish a process for evaluating options for safer alternatives. Karl's team also administers DTSC's other toxics in products laws and helps lead the Department's efforts to expand pollution prevention practices, green chemistry strategies and sustainability initiatives throughout California.

Prior to his current job, Karl lead DTSC's Regulatory and Program Development Branch, providing technical support and policy development and adopting regulations for hazardous waste classification, recycling, household hazardous waste, electronic waste and universal wastes. Mr. Palmer has worked in each of DTSC's core programs performing a wide variety of work including site assessments and inspections of hazardous waste sites, conducting investigations at state superfund sites, cleaning up former methamphetamine labs and coordinating HAZMAT support at major chemical spills and natural disasters.

Mr. Palmer holds a B.S. in Resource Sciences from the University of California, Davis.

Integrating Product Stewardship & Sustainability into Operations: Green Packaging

Irenessa Oliva

President and CEO
Eco PakTrak, Inc

Irenessa Oliva is the Founder, President, and CEO of Eco PakTrak, Inc. (EPT). Headquartered in Gold River, CA., EPT provides a one-stop, convenient source for sustainable food and material packaging/shipping products, restaurant, janitorial, healthcare, and non-toxic cleaning supplies made from all natural sources which are biodegradable, compostable and recyclable.

Driven by a strong desire to help build communities, protect and support our environment, and to inspire younger generations to do the same, Irenessa recognizes that what we do today impacts our future. Inspired by this passion, she took a leap of faith and left her previous business development role on a mission to build a company dedicated and committed to environmental stewardship and social responsibility.

Ms. Oliva holds a Bachelor of Science (BS) and a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from Kennesaw State University. She has been an active member of several entrepreneurship focused organizations, including the National Association for Minority Contractors (NAMC), the Women Business Enterprise Council (WBENC) and the Northern California Minority Supplier Development Council (NCMSDC).

Ms. Oliva's vision is to educate everyone about the importance of being a good steward of the environment. She aspires to influence more environmentally friendly and ecologically responsible decisions and lifestyles, which will help protect the environment and sustain our natural resources for current and future generations.

Legal Perspective: Lead-Based Paint Decision

Mary Alexander

Attorney

Mary Alexander Law

Mary E. Alexander, M.P.H., J.D., is the principal of Mary Alexander and Associates in San Francisco. She is a nationally recognized trial lawyer in personal injury and products liability. She obtained her JD and Honorary Doctor of Laws from University of Santa Clara in 1982 and 2003, respectively, and Master of Public Health (industrial hygiene) from University of California, Berkeley in 1975. Prior to her legal career, she was a research scientist in medical toxicology and was director of environmental health at Stanford Research Institute, where she conducted industrial hygiene research.

Ms. Alexander represented 10 California cities and counties, along with a team of attorneys, in People of California v. Atlantic Richfield, resulting in a verdict of $1.15 billion. This abatement fund will be used for lead inspections and lead paint removal in tens of thousands of homes in California. She and the team received the Trial Lawyer of the Year award from San Francisco Trial Lawyers Association and Public Justice Foundation in 2014.

She is in the Trial Lawyer Hall of Fame (California State Bar), the Top 100 Most Influential Lawyers in California, and is Past President of American Association for Justice and the Consumer Attorneys of California.

Industrial Hygiene Afloat: A focus on IH concerns and responsibilities aboard a U.S. Navy Aircraft Carrier

Commander Daniel Hardt, CIH

Department Head, Industrial Hygiene
Naval Medical Center San Diego, Medical Service Corps, US Navy

A native of Upland, California, CDR Hardt holds a Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry from the University of California at Riverside and a Master of Science in Environmental Health from the Harvard School of Public Health. He is certified for comprehensive practice by the American Board of Industrial Hygiene (2004-Present) and has authored several peer-reviewed journal articles and technical reports relating to his research in environmental and inhalation toxicology.

CDR Hardt assumed his current position as the Department Head of Industrial Hygiene at Naval Medical Center San Diego on August 26, 2013. His department provides regulatory compliance oversight and industrial hygiene support to over 250 military commands which operate industrial facilities located in the southwest region. Prior to his current assignment, he was the Director for Inhalation Toxicology at Naval Medical Research Unit, Dayton, Ohio, where he coordinated all tri-service efforts to investigate the inhalation toxicity of alternative fuels, combustion emissions, fire extinguishing media, particulate matter, nanoparticles, and schedule III chemical agents. As the Principal Investigator, he completed a study on the reproductive health risks from submarine atmospheres, which data were critical to supporting the gender integration of submarine crews.

Additional military assignments include (chronologically): Director of Force Health Protection, Headquarters, U.S. Marine Corps, Washington, DC; Fellow (Consequence Management), U.S. Army Research, Development, and Engineering Command, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, MD; Department Head, Occupational Health and Preventive Medicine, Naval Branch Health Clinic, Sasebo, Japan; Industrial Hygiene Officer, USS CONSTELLATION (CV-64); and, Industrial Hygiene Officer, Naval Medical Center San Diego.

CDR Hardt has deployed four times in leadership roles in support of the fleet, in theaters of war, and as a public health expert in support of humanitarian assistance missions following large scale natural disasters. His awards include the Meritorious Service Medal, the Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medal (3 awards), the Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medal (2 awards), the Humanitarian Service Medal (2 Awards), and numerous unit and other personal awards. He was the recipient of the 2005 Industrial Hygiene Officer Leadership Award for his coordination of the public health mission (Operation Unified Assistance) to Indonesia following the Sumatra-Andaman earthquake and tsunami.
